

At Lab08, we are a team of experienced developers joining forces with innovators who aspire to build products with a positive impact on the world. Our people are our greatest asset. So, when you come to work with us, we make sure you get to focus on one product and develop your best from start to finish. Lab08's employees have the opportunity to deep dive and study the clients' businesses. By using this experience, they develop innovative functionalities for their products, which look fantastic and are also reliable. This is why Lab08 is a trusted partner for the journey of clients and employees alike.

We are currently expanding our team and offer Junior Software Developer positions and we are open to discussing internship opportunities within our organization.